

The availability of heavily subsidised treatment costs has made medical tourism an attractive option for many individuals seeking high-quality healthcare at a fraction of the cost they would pay in their home countries. Countries like India are able to provide world-class medical care at significantly discounted rates due to factors such as low infrastructure costs and a favourable doctor-patient ratio.

According to a cost comparison study conducted by the American Medical Association, the cost of a knee replacement surgery in the US is $40,000, while it is $10,000 in Thailand and $13,000 in Singapore. However, in India, the same procedure is available for just $8,500. Similarly, a bone marrow transplant in the US may cost around $400,000, and in the UK it is approximately $150,000, whereas in India it is priced at a much lower $30,000.

Regardless of the treatment sought, individuals can expect to save around 65-70% of the total cost, which includes healthcare services, wellness travel, accommodation, and food expenses. Mascot Regimen offers a cost-effective and appealing option for those in need of medical treatment.
